Evolution is change in the heritable characteristics of biological populations over successive generations. These characteristics are the expressions of genes that are passed on from parent to offspring during reproduction. Different characteristics tend to exist within any given population as a result of mutation, genetic recombination and other sources of genetic variation.

What is the basis of setting 1mSv as the annual dose limit for the general public; while for professionals it is 20mSv/year? 50mSv has been set as the maximum dose an occupational worker can receive.

Why is 1mSv the annual dose limit for the general public?

None of these answers is complete. You can see this just by browsing a Maven repository. An artifact is apparently a directory satisfying some constraints, e.g. it must contain a file called maven-metadata.xml and a file called <artifactId>-<version>.pom. Both of those files have some undocumented schema and semantics. - jamesfisher Oct 29 '14 at 11:16
